THE LIBERTY BELL ON A WHISTLE STOP IN PRINCETON: On June 15, 1903, a special train bearing the Liberty Bell on a five-day tour from Philadelphia to Boston made a 15-minute stopover in Princeton at noontime. In those days the Princeton Station was at the foot of what is now Blair Tower. Witherspoon and Little Halls are in the background in this Historical Society photo, which shows a crowd of curious Princetonians gathering around the symbol of the nation's hard-won independence.

Another Round in Court Goes in Favor of Collins

"We've said all along that the best thing is to get all the issues out of the local, highly emotional forum and into the courts, where laws and objectivity prevail. We haven't lost on any point in court and that's the way we see it going in the future."

With those words Collins Development Corporation's Gary Green expressed his obvious pleasure at the outcome of another round of court proceedings concerning the Collins plans for expansion of Princeton's central business district.

The Collins win came last Friday when Superior Court Judge Paul Levy denied the request of the Witherspoon Jackson Development Corporation that it be granted an extension to appeal the Planning Board's approval of the Collins plan. The community housing group was prepared to argue that the Collins project, as approved, would have a negative impact by raising property values in the Witherspoon Street area. The group contended that it was entitled to a time extension because its initial appeal to Borough Council was invalidated after the court ruled that Council did not have jurisdiction.

The proceedings in Trenton never reached that point. Judge Levy ruled that the issues being raised by Witherspoon Jackson were "frivolous" and had already been considered by the Planning Board in its deliberations for the preliminary approval. Noting the presence of two attorneys for Collins, the judge told WJDC lawyer Glenn R. Cochran, "If this were a jurisdiction where you pay for frivolous lawsuits, your clients would be paying for two attorneys now." For Witherspoon Jackson, the day in court was over in 20 minutes.

School Board Wins In Ivan-Murray Suit

The New Jersey Supreme Court has ruled in favor of the Princeton Regional School Board in its three-year-old dispute with teachers Lawrence Ivan and Thomas Murray.

The court granted a certification of appeal to the board and remanded the conflict to the state commissioner of education for a final ruling. This is exactly where the board wants the matter to be, since an original ruling by the commissioner was in the board's favor.

Superintendent of Schools Paul Houston said that the court ruling was even more favorable than had been anticipated. The board had asked for a hearing so that it could argue that the case be turned over to the commissioner of education. Instead, the court handed it directly to the commissioner.

Judge Will Allow Township to Change Zoning Laws Rather Than Accept Remedies Suggested by Builder

The Township's current land use ordinances do not meet Mt. Laurel II requirements.

To no one's surprise, that was the opinion of Judge Eugene D. Serpentelli of Toms River after his pre-trial conference last Thursday with Township and Planning Board attorneys and the attorneys for the two developers who have brought Mt. Laurel suits charging the Township and Planning Board with exclusionary zoning. The opinion was expected to be entered formally as a court order this week.

Township Attorney Edwin W. Schmierer described the tenor of the pre-trial conference as "very positive" from the Township's point of view. In effect, he said, the immediate threat of the "builder's remedy" has been lifted, at least temporarily, and the Township gained permission to continue with its effort to adopt new or revised ordinances that would comply with Mount Laurel.

Mr. Schmierer described the judge as "more than pleasant and very encouraging." "The decision was not unexpected," he said, "but the judge clearly wanted to keep zoning at the local level. The ruling gives the Township an opportunity to adopt an affordable housing ordinance which will become the basis of the trial." He added that the judge's decision does not negate the township's current zoning, and the ruling has no bearing on current applications before the Planning Board.

Judge Serpentelli has been assigned to hear all Mount Laurel cases in Central Jersey. For convenience, the suit by Calton Homes that involves the White Farm between Princeton Pike and Route 206 was consolidated with the more recent suit brought by Princeton Ridge. Calton Homes wants to build a townhouse development of 10 units per acre on a 128-acre plot, setting aside 256 units, or 20 percent of the 1,280 townhouses, for low and moderate income families. The property is currently in a minimum 2-acre residential zone. Calton is being represented in the action against the Township and Planning Board by Henry Hill of Brener Wallack and Hill.

Princeton Ridge, a subsidiary of Dravo Corp. of Pittsburgh, wants to build a cluster development with an overall density of 3.5 units per acre on 228 acres in the northern

Palmer Video Robbed By 2 Armed Gunmen

Township police this week report no new developments in Saturday afternoon's armed robbery of the Palmer Video Store in the Princeton Shopping Center. Two men, one armed with a handgun, held up three employees shortly before 4 and escaped with $320 from a cash register.

Capt. John Petrone commented that armed holdups in the Shopping Center are a rarity. "In the 30 years I've been on the force, I can only recall about four," he said. "Both food markets, the Household Finance Office and now this one."

Police are continuing their search for two black male suspects. One is described as approximately six feet tall, in his early 20s, 160 to section of the Township. That property is currently zoned for minimum 3-acre and 4-acre lots because of environmental factors. Jeffrey Hall of Strauss Wills O'Neill & Voorhees is the lawyer for Princeton Ridge in the Mt. Laurel suit.

Another positive factor as noted by Mr. Schmierer was that the judge did not appoint a "master" to write the ordinances for the Township, as he is entitled to do under the Mount Laurel II decision and as the developers requested.

However, if the affordable housing ordinance, when finally written and adopted, does not meet the Mount Laurel criteria to the judge's satisfaction, he may then apply the "builder's remedy" and grant the developers' requests for density with a certain percentage of low and moderate income set-asides. Or he may at that time appoint a master to create an affordable housing ordinance.

From the point of view of the developers, their purpose in having the Township's ordinances declared exclusionary has been served through this first stage of bringing suit and pre-trial conference. The next phase is likely to be another conference on the case in July at which time there will be an effort to establish the number of low and moderate income housing units required under the fair share provision of the Mount Laurel decision.

Mr. Schmierer was unclear as to when the case would go to trial.

Ivan, Murray Lose

The beginnings of the dispute go back to 1981, when Mr. Ivan and Mr. Murray, both of whom had taught for several years at Princeton High School, were transferred to Littlebrook and the Middle School, respectively. The teachers charged that their transfer resulted from their criticism of PHS Principal John Sakola for changing a student's failing gym grade to a "medically excused" grade. At the time, the student's father was president of the school board.

The board has contended that the transfers were made to improve the physical education programs at Littlebrook and John Witherspoon.

The Appellate Division of Superior Court ruled in March that the teachers were improperly transferred and must be re-instated. The ruling reversed the finding by State Commissioner of Education Saul Cooperman that the transfer was in order.

Commissioner Cooperman's ruling was confirmed by the State Board of Education. In addition, the teachers have not had the formal backing of the PREA, the Princeton teachers' union. The stated opinion of the New Jersey Education Association (NJEA) was that the board had the right to transfer the two men.

In commenting on the Supreme Court ruling, Dr. Houston said, "We are pleased that it has been put back into the educational arena where we feel the decision is more properly made."

Mayor Pike Offers Seven Possible Solutions For Township's Affordable Housing Problem

Township Committee was scheduled to continue discussion of the Affordable Housing Ordinance at its meeting last Monday night. The meeting took place after TOWN TOPICS met an early press deadline because of the mid-week holiday.

In a telephone interview earlier Monday, Mayor Winthrop S. Pike said he would entertain some continued public discussion of the ordinance, but he really wanted to give Committee members a chance to discuss it among themselves at the public session. He said he would outline for Committee seven options or alternatives, as he saw them, relating to the ordinance that has been described as "the most important" with which Princeton has had to deal.

He said that Committee could:

• Do nothing. This means losing the Mount Laurel law suits (see page 1) and letting the judge appoint a "master" to rezone the town in keeping with Mount Laurel criteria and/or apply the "builder's remedy" by which the two developers would be permitted to build the densities they seek, a portion of which would be low and moderate income housing;

• Adopt a system of mandatory set-asides which would be simple to put in place but would use up more land;

• Incorporate a proposal suggested by R. William Potter of the Friends of Open Space that would allow towns to satisfy at least half of their Mount Laurel obligation by putting money towards the creation of low and moderate income housing in Trenton;

• Adopt a modification of the plan proposed by the Homeownership Group of Delaware. "This is one of the most interesting possibilities in the whole panorama," Mayor Pike commented, although he added that modifications would be needed from the type of housing that the Group is presently in the process of creating in New Brunswick. There the purpose was to attract middle-income families back into the center of the City. Mayor Pike said he thought it would be "fine" if the Princeton Borough Housing Authority were to be reconstituted as a joint agency with Township representation and become the developer for the lease/purchase plan for new units that is the specialty of Homeownership Group.

• Decide to build and pay for the requisite number of units by floating a bond issue. The advantage to this method, the Mayor says, is that it uses less land and yet he is opposed to the tax increase (estimated to range from a "worst case" 6 to 18.8 percent increase in a homeowner's tax bill over a 30-year period to a "best case" 3.8 to 11.5 percent increase over the same period) that would result. Mayor Pike points out that many Township residents feel that their taxes are high enough already.

• Adopt Plan X — in case, as the mayor puts it, someone comes up with some alternative that has not yet been thought of;

• Adopt the Affordable Housing ordinance either as presently proposed by housing consultants Alan Mallach and John Nolan or with variations. Mayor Pike points out that many of the above alternatives could be incorporated in this ordinance. For instance, a portion of the required units could be bonded, or there could be a mix of voluntary and mandatory set-asides for an "intermediate amount" of land use.

Suggested Modifications. In addition to these alternatives, Margen Penick, Elizabeth Hutter and Donald M. Wilson were expected to present Township Committee with their recommended modifications to the proposed Affordable Housing Ordinance, should Township Committee decide to amend it. They recommend that all new construction, commercial as well as residential, contribute to the affordable housing plan.

They note that there presently exists a potential of 1.15 million square feet in the office-research districts at the maximum permitted floor-area ration and that the total financial contribution to the housing trust from such non-residential development at 5 percent of present construction costs would amount to $3.1 million.

To implement their idea of across-the-board contributions, Mrs. Penick, Mrs. Hutter and Mr. Wilson suggest that the single affordable housing district proposed by the consultants be divided into two "overlay" zones: a buildable zone that would exclude certain areas that are presently proposed to be excluded, and a contribution zone, all areas of potential new construction.

Contributions to the housing trust fund in lieu of building affordable units would be pegged at 5 percent of the selling price (in the case of residential) of bonus units, and 5 percent of the building costs (in the case of non-residential).

In addition to affordable housing, the Township Committee agenda for last Monday included the jogging regulations, handicapped parking zones, and sump pumps. In all, a lengthy session.

CBD THE FOCUS

Of Landmarks Ordinance. Much of the discussion generated by last week's Borough-sponsored trip to historic landmark districts in Burlington and Haddonfield has centered on the future of Princeton's central business district.

Borough Mayor Barbara Sigmund sees an historic sites ordinance — in conjunction with several other preservation methods used successfully by other municipalities -- as a way to confront the threat of new shopping areas rising close to Princeton.

"It is important," said the mayor, "to convey the positive aspects to downtown merchants. There is an uneasiness within the merchants' community in the Borough due to the potential development of one million square feet of shopping and offices in Forrestal."

Joint Historic Sites Commission Chairman Charles St. John said that, since the opening of Quakerbridge Mall, Princeton's downtown has been hard-pressed.

"The commercial district in town is its lifeblood. Without a viable central business district, the town will die," said Mr. St. John.

The next step in the process toward the introduction of a Borough Landmarks ordinance will be bringing together all interested individuals and institutions to view a slide show on how Burlington has used the Main Street Program to preserve history – and how it has profited from the preservation. The public will be invited to attend.

The Main Street Program is administered through the National Trust for Historic Preservation and the State Department of Environmental Protection. It has been used successfully to revitalize downtown areas in Burlington and Haddonfield.

The slide presentation will kick off what Mayor Sigmund expects will be a great deal of discussion within the community.

"We were told over and over, especially in Haddonfield, of the necessity of public education prior to introduction of an historic sites ordinance," she said.

Mr. St. John is anxious to show people what can be accomplished and how historic preservation works. "The Borough said its last word — 'We don't like what you've done' — in 1978 (the year a landmarks ordinance was withdrawn because of heavy opposition). But the clock keeps ticking."

REPAIRS DELAYED

At Three Schools. The repairs and renovation that were supposed to have been begun this summer at Princeton High School, Community Park and Riverside will not begin for at least one more year.

The projects are Phase One of the renovations financed by the $3.7 million bond issue approved by voters last December. The delay results from the Board's not receiving any responses to its request for bids.

Among the things that now will not be done until next year are improving the music room and driveway at the high school, moving the basketball court and installing a grassy play area at Community Park, and repairing the playground and bike rack at Riverside.

School Superintendent Paul Houston believes the lack of bids may have been due to the three to four months now required for approval of plans. "By the time we went through the plan approval process, people were just committed for the summer."

He does not anticipate that the three-year timetable for the school renovations and repairs will have to be extended, but sees the need for a greater amount of work to be done next summer. He also will make certain that next year's bids get in early.

$1.6 MILLION IS GOAL

Of United Way. Princeton Area Communities United Way has set a record campaign goal of $1.6 million for its upcoming campaign, an increase of six percent over last year's successful drive. The amount takes into account continued inflation and an increase in demands made of member agencies by the growing numbers of people living in the area.

The amount sought is said to reflect a combination of what can realistically be raised with what must be raised to meet area needs.

Campaign Chairman Robert Clagett, general manager of the Engineering Research Center of AT&T Technologies in Hopewell, and his assistant, Albert Hanson, regional vice president of McGraw-Hill in Hightstown, will lead more than 1,000 volunteers in the drive, which is set to begin in September. They are currently recruiting volunteers for the various divisions of the campaign.

The United Way hopes to begin a program of loaned executives this year. In this program, a company donates one of its employees on a full-time basis for several weeks during the campaign. This would increase the ability of the United Way to raise funds, but will not add to the cost of fund raising.

The campaign will be conducted on behalf of 28 member agencies, which serve the people who live or work in Cranbury, East Windsor, Griggstown, Hightstown, Kingston, Montgomery, Plainsboro, Princeton, Rocky Hill, West Windsor, and adjacent areas of Hopewell, Lawrence and South Brunswick Townships.

SUBJECTS ABOUND

At Council Meeting. Last week's Borough Council Work Session covered a wide range of topics, including sidewalk repair, the new WaWa Market on Nassau Street, the Harrison Street Bridge, ride sharing, and cost cutting.

Appareotly, the section of the Borough Code regarding sidewalks does not specify that maintenance is required. It says only that, if maintained, all work shall be in accordance with certain specifications.

It was recommended to Council that the section be amended by adding a new paragraph to read: "All sidewalks shall be maintained by the adjacent property owner so as to be level and of sound material in accordance with standards adopted by the borough engineer."

Incidentally, the Borough's definition of sidewalks also includes bicycle paths.

Council will continue the discussion on a revision of the Borough Code concerning sidewalks at a later meeting.

A letter from a Murray Place resident led Council to decide to look into the matter of how the WaWa market, when it moves into the former Viking Furniture Store, would handle its parking and garbage.

The letter expressed the concern of Murray Place residents about "a threat to the quality of life in the area," particularly as it relates to garbage disposal and the danger of rats.

There was additinnal concern that the rear parking lot, given WaWa's practice of 24-hour business days, would cause a hazard and potential for noise at night.

Council agreed to pursue fact-finding on the matter.

In a letter to Council, the Historical Society of Princeton asked to go on record in opposition to the widening of the Harrison Street bridge to four lanes and the widening of Harrison Street to three lanes. The Society also opposes the widening to four lanes of the intersection of Harrison Street and Route 1.

Summer Hours at Library

Summer hours will go into effect at the Public Library on Tuesday, July 10. The library will be closed all day Wednesday, July 4, in recognition of Independence Day.

The library will be open between 9 a.m. and 12:30 p.m. on Saturdays during July and August. Summer hours during the week will be 9 to 9 Mondays through Thursdays, and 9 to 5:30 on Fridays.

Books and other materials may be returned through the book drop whenever the building is closed.

What is favored by the Society, should work be done on the bridge, is a two-lane bridge and pedestrian walkway.

The council agreed with this position and will write Mercer County — the governing body responsible for any bridge rebuilding — to this effect.

Ride-sharing came in for some discussion at the meeting. Council President Dick Woodbridge, Council's representative on the Princeton ride-sharing program being developed through the Middlesex-Somerset-Mercer Regional Study Council, will try to determine how much interest really exists in such a program.

Borough Finance Chairman Irv Urken presented a report showing that the Borough was charged about 20 percent more than the normal price for various items involved in the renovation of police headquarters. "We paid premium prices," he said, "as premium as you can get."

He also cited an instance in which a board of lumber was purchased for $60, when the cost should have been $15, and noted that, all things — including cost — being equal, the Borough should purchase in Princeton, not outside of town. He said this was not always the case.

Noting that the Borough does not want to be caught in a "Defense-Department syndrome" of highly inflated prices, Mr. Urken suggested that a professional reviewer

Evening of Vibrant Musical Adventure Marks Debut of Hopewell's Off-Broad Street Theatre

A big bravo from the George Gallup table! A standing ovation from the house! A huge hug from cummerbunded and boutonniered director Bob Thicke to his three radiant performers! And looking around ... yes, smiles and cheers everywhere!

A big BRAVO indeed.

Friday night, June 29, marked the festive opening of central New Jersey's newest place to be: the Off-Broad Street Theatre in Hopewell. And if you weren't there — popping corks from your French champagne all the way to the 35-foot high ceiling and inhaling chocolate mousse, apple pie, strawberry shortcake or fresh fruit du jour at your personal pink candle-lit table ....

That is, if you said to yourself (silly person) that you'd wait and see how this entertainment experiment turned out and then possibly subscribe to the season — so that you missed the supercharged singing and strutting of beautiful Teri Maioriello, charming Raymie Priesmeyer, and cute and feisty Janet Cantore ....

I mean, if you actually thought that the dull blue glow from a worn-out TV sitcom offered a better chance of igniting your imagination, tingling your toes, and making you feel (frankly) just glad to be alive ....

Really, folks, if you didn't come to Starting Here, Starting Now on opening night because you didn't want to be delighted, then you'd be advised to re-shuffle your priorities and get in line for tickets now. There shouldn't be an empty seat by next weekend.

News of The THEATRES

Starting here, with the delectable desserts of Martha Stamm (after sampling some one patron asked Mrs. Stamm to adopt him!) the audience was treated to a sophisticated show and a high level of professional performance that never waivered. Opening nights are full of jitters — "and a few bugs," lamented host Bob Thicke — but if they were there, the jitters were momentary and the bugs were no-see-ums.

Musical direction was superb, and the rich, sensitive orchestration supplied by master pianist Scott Ward, percussionist Timothy Smith and Robert Speidell on bass, was a tribute to the Maltby-Shire score. Choreography was crafted to energize the music, not to call attention to itself, and Julie Thicke's practiced hand was evident, especially in the splashy second act.

Spirited Cast. As for the three stars themselves, it was an evening of non-stop lip-scrambling, soul-riveting, heart-pounding, soaring, stinging, vibrant musical adventure. And they were more than equal to it. Beyond the excellent technical exeeution and the fine blending of their voices and personas, there was this spirit, this indefatigable energy, that kept the audience involved. Even when the music itself was less than memorable, the fine musicianship held us.

The show was music, music, music. And the songs were about everyday scenes — our hopes and our dreams and our failures. Some of the most successful were about failures. In one captivating sequence, Janet Cantore of the fiery brown eyes took us on a marvelously _ _ _ _ _ _ _ _ _ _ (eight-letter adjective meaning "bereft of love or lover") trip through the Sunday Times Crossword Puzzle. (*l-o-v-e-l-o-r-n, for you buffs.) Teri Maieriello followed with a gentle, haunting ballad entitled "Autumn." And Raymie Priesmeyer jumped right in with both feet on the petulant and poignant "I Don't Remember You." His second act showstopper was the biggest failure of all. "Where," he bemoaned, "is flair? That flash when you enter a room?" Raymie can forget about failure — he can't hide the flair or the talent.

The versatility of these three fine singers is a treat to hear and see. Teri can use her gorgeous, big voice in a lyric number like "Watching the Big Parade" or as a comic backstop to Raymie's egomanic "We Can Talk to Each Other." He, on the other hand, has a wonderfully tender quality and a sparking great smile that make solos and ensembles and even numbers when he's standing in the wings come alive. And as for Janet, here is charm, pathos, big-eyed innocence nnd passion. "I'm a Girl You Should Know," she begs in Act II. And you feel that you should.

But don't wait too long. More than 150 season subscriptions have already been snapped up.

Starting Here, Starting Now will be playing at the Off-Broadway ... oh, excuse me

WILSON PLAY NEXT

At Murray Theatre. Princeton Summer Theatre will continue its season with Lanford Wilson's Angels Fall, which will open Thursday, July 5, at Murray Theatre on the Princeton University campus.

Mr. Wilson is the author of Talley's Folley, for which he won the Pulitzer Prize. The play takes place in an austere adobe mission in New Mexico during a "minor' nuclear accident at a local uranium mine. During the alert, the roads are sealed off, stranding six characters.

They are the mission priest, played by Herbert McAneny, and his unofficial foster son (Daniel Greenberg); a psychologically unraveled art history professor (Andy Thomson) and his wife (Robin Pearse); and a wealthy local widow (Mary Beth Miller) and her new "toy boy" of a lover, an aspiring tennis star. The crisis outside the mission mirrors the internal crisis of faith that each character must resolve. Together they stage a rehearsal for the end of the world in order to find the strength to continue.

David Hlavsa, co-artistic director of Princeton Summer Theatre and a recent Princeton University graduate, will direct. Mr. Hlavsa produced A Lesson from Aloes by Athol Fugard for the Program in Theatre and Dance.

Angels Fall will run July 5-8 and 12-15. Thursday, Friday and Saturday shows will begin at 8, Sunday twilight shows at 4:30. To reserve tickets call 452-4950 or come by the box office between 10 and 7:30 Tuesday to Saturday or 1 to 4 on Sunday. Ticket prices are $6 for Thursday and Sunday shows, $7.50 for Friday and Saturday shows.

For further information, call 452-8181.

'WARGAMES,' 'EMPIRE'

At Kresge Auditorium. The Summer Cinema series continues with War Games and The Empire Strikes Back showing at Kresge Auditorium on Washington Street through Sunday, July 8.

War Games, about a high school "computer jock" who accidentally taps into the Defense Department's early warning system, will be shown at 7:30 on Thursday, July 5, and at 9:40 on Friday, Saturday and Sunday, July 6-8. The Empire Strikes Back, the second installment of the Star Wars trilogy, may be seen at 9:30 this Thursday and at 7:30 Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

The festival is sponsored by the New Jersey State Council on the Arts and the state Division of Parks and Forestry. It will feature many of New Jersey's finest folk artists in a program that ranges from foot-stomping bluegrass to lyrical folk music focusing on the earth and man's relationship to it. Musicians will play everything from bouzouki and bodran to pennywhistle and spoons, with plenty of guitar picking and banjo work in between.

Ms. Danoff is a story teller who performs in schools and libraries throughout the state. Her stories come from many countries around the world — Asia, Africa, Europe, and North America. She has appeared in Princeton at the Public Library and the Arts Council.

COWARD COMEDY SET

At Artists Showcase. Noel Coward's comedy Blithe Spirit, in which strange noises and ghostly apparitions are part of the fun, will open a three-weekend run on Saturdy, July 7, at Artists Showcase Theatre in Trenton.

One of the longest running comedies in the history of the British stage, the play was written during the bleak war years to remind audiences of happier days. Celia Munro-Jones of Princeton plays Ruth, the live wife of Charles Condomine. Originally from Britain, Ms. Munro-Jones has appeared with the Princeton Community Players.

Steven Nelson, a Trenton resident who appears in area productions, is cast as Charles. Playing his ghostly wife is Debbie Lawler of Lawrence, most recently seen in Deathtrap at Artists Showcase. Eleanor Overton of Hamilton, seen frequently in Mercer County Community College productions, plays Madame Arcati, the medium. Ruth Kulerman, speech therapist with a background in opera and theatre, will play Mrs. Bradman.

Art Poulos of Plainsboro appears as Dr. Bradman, and Diane Gaston of Hamilton is Edith. Blithe Spirit is under the direction of Gerald E. Guarnieri, chairman of the Trenton Arts Commission and co-founder of the Shakespeare '70 company which is producing the play.

Curtain time is 8 p.m. Tickets range from $5.50 to $6.50. For reservations call 392-1704.

FOR YOUR NEXT GREAT ADVENTURE

BOREALIS WIND QUINTET will perform Tuesday, July 10, at 8 p.m. in the courtyard of the Graduate College as the next offering in the Outdoor Chamber Series. Wind instruments represented are bassoon, clarinet, oboe and flute. Inclement weather will force the concert into the Princeton University Chapel; call 452-5977 if in doubt.

MUSIC

WIND QUINTET NEXT

In Chamber Series. The Borealis Wind Quintet will blow into Princeton Tuesday, July 10, as the second free concert of the Princeton University Outdoor Chamber Concert Series.

This group, now in its sixth year, made its New York debut as winner of the Annual Artists International Young Musicians Competition in 1976. Its New York appearances include performances at Alice Tully Hall, Columbia University and critically acclaimed recitals at Carnegie Hall.

The Borealis Wind Quintet enjoys reaching beyond the traditional repertoire to introduce new works and revive forgotten pieces of the 18th and 19th centuries. This Princeton concert will include works by Ibert, Danzi, Arnold, Lefebvre, Tchaikowsky, Donizetti and Rossini.

Members of the Borealis are Richard Price, horn; Michael Finn, bassoon; Kathryn Taylor, clarinet; Tamar Beach Wells, oboe; and Katherine Fink, flute. All have distinguished themselves nationally and internationally as soloists and ensemble players.

The concert will be held at the main court of the Graduate College at 8 p.m., or at the University Chapel in case of rain. To check the location, call 452-5977 after 4 p.m. Parking is at the Graduate School parking lot off Springdale Road. The audience is advised to bring blankets to sit on.

Those wishing to contribute to help offset the cost of the concerts may do so at the event or by sending a tax-deductible check payable to the "Trustees of Princeton University," to Summer Concerts, Woolworth Center, Princeton University, 08544. The names of all contributors will be listed on the program unless otherwise requested.

POPS CONCERT SET

For Independence Day. Michel Sasson will be the guest conductor of the New Jersey Symphony Orchestra when it gives its annual Pops Concert this Wednesday, July 4, at 7:30 on the Princeton University fields east of Palmer Stadium.

The event is sponsored by the Princeton/Mercer Chapter of the New Jersey Symphony Orchestra League and the Chamber of Commerce. The program will include familiar music by Rossini, Mendelssohn, Offenbach and Rimsky-Korsakov. It will conclude with Tchaikovsky's 1812 Overture with fireworks courtesy of the Chamber of Commerce. The guest artist will be Metropolitan Opera baritone David Arnold, who has given numerous concerts in the area.

Tickets are available at the gate, which will open at 5:30 for those who wish to picnic first. In case of rain, the Orchestra will perform in Jadwin Gym at 7:30, and the fireworks will be postponed until Friday night, July 6.

ROCK GROUP SET

For Summer Sounds Concert. The group, The Three Colors, from Boston, will perform on Thursday, July 5, for the Princeton Summer Sounds Concert Series.

The free outdoor show will begin at 7:30 p.m. in Community Park North Amphitheater, Route 206 and Mountain Avenue. Parking is available at Community Park Swimming Pool and the Township Police Station.

By Choir College. A week of organ recitals will begin on Monday, July 9, with a performance by Joan Lippincott in Trinity Church at 7 p.m. The recital is a part of the Westminster Choir College Summer Session Music Series.

Ms. Lippincott is head of the Westminster Organ Department and is an active performer and recording artist. She will present an all Bach concert including the Concert in d minor (Vivaldi-Bach), Passacaglia, and Toccata and Fugue in F.

Eugene Roan, member of the Westminster organ faculty, will perform in Bristol Chapel on Wednesday, July 11, at 7 p.m. Prof. Roan and Ms. Lippincott are leading workshops in the Performer's Art Series at the Westminster Summer Session for organists from across the United States. Mr. Roan will present the styles and repertoires of the Italian, English and German Romantic periods.

Both organ recitals will be repeated the following week at 7 p.m. on Monday, July 16 and Thursday, July 19, at the same locations.

Organ recitals by students in the Westminster Summer Session will be held on Thursday, July 12, in Schiede Recital Hall at Westminster. Young organists attending High School Organ Week will perform beginning at 7 and master class participants of the Performer's Art workshop will perform at 8:30. SINGERS INVITED

To Choir College, "A Tribute to Erik Routley," led by John Kemp, will be the theme of the Westminster Hymn Sing on Monday, July 9, at 8:30 in Bristol Chapel. Mr. Routley, the renowned hymnologist, was a member of the Westminster church music faculty before his death in 1982. Mr. Kemp was head of the church music department at Westminster during Mr. Routley's tenure. Everyone is invited to join the singing; music will be supplied.

Mr. Kemp returned to the full-time music ministry in 1983 as director of music at the First Presbyterian Church of Oklahoma City. This summer he is teaching a course at Westminster's Summer Session on training small choirs. Professional church musicians and volunteer choir directors from across the country are attending. Helen Kemp, who shares the music ministry in Oklahoma with her husband, as director of children's choirs, will teach the second half of this one-week course.

The Faure Hequiem will be the featured choral work at the Tuesday night Summer Sing at Bristol Chapel on July 10 at 8 Allen Crowell, the conductor of the Westminster Singers and Oratorio Choir, will conduct. Everyone is invited, and scores will be provided at the door.

Another Hymn Sing will be held on Wednesday, July 11, at 8:30 p.m. in Bristol Chapel, with arranger, composer, and conductor Alice Parker leading the singing. The Sing will include hymns from the Scottish Psalter and American Folk Hymns.

be brought in once a month to review the bills. There was some talk of perhaps enlisting the services of experienced volunteers to do this task.

Mr. Urken also informed Council that it was not being accorded the standard ten and two percent discounts generally offered by suppliers for prompt payment. He recommended that a letter be sent out to all concerned parties notifying them that the Borough expected such discounts.

No final decisions on either of these two suggestions were made at the meeting.

INTERIM APPOINTMENTS

At Borough. The Borough has made five interim appointments in the wake of the resignation of former Borough Engineer George Olexa.

They are, James Martin, assistant Borough engineer, to the post of planning development officer. He is also in charge of the Shade Tree Commission in an acting capacity.

Also, Martin Dorward, to manager of the Sewer Operating Committee; Frank Slimak, to zoning development enforcement officer; Bernard Glover, to construction official of the Borough of Princeton; and Fred Battisti, a new employee, to building subcode official of the Borough. Mr. Battisti will be charged with the majority of on-site inspections required for obtaining certificates of occupancy.

AFS STUDENTS TO LEAVE

For Travel Abroad. Fourteen Princeton area students will travel abroad this year under AFS sponsorship. Their destinations will range from Sweden to Idonesia.

Students who are going abroad on AFS summer programs are Denise Baumunk, Idonesia; Ruth Bender, Sweden; Peggy Bolster, Uruguay; Tracey Hemmingway, Honduras; Leigh Peterson, Ecuador; Laura Rodas, Portugal; Abby Rose, France; Claudia Simms, Mexico; and Dominic Tracey, Brazil. They will spend the summer with host families, becoming familiar with the culture of their particular country.

The other five students are Susan Franz, who left for Chile in February, David Kingston, who is going to Finland, Kathy McKee, the Netherlands, Nance Moy, Switzerland, and Eric Rapp, France. They will spend a year attending school with host brothers and sisters in their respective countries. Living abroad as part of a family for this length of time will give them a different perspective on their own lives and their views of the world.

AFS is a non-profit organization committed to fostering international peace and understanding by having young adults experience life in another culture first hand. High school students, between the ages of 16 and 18, stay with host families chosen by AFS. The experience takes them into the main stream of life in the host country rather than limiting them to the superficial view experienced by most tourists.

To send 14 students abroad is a major effort for the Princeton Chapter of AFS and requires help in many areas. Families willing to host a young person from another country are particularly needed. The rewards to any family that opens its home to these visitors are many.

The opportunity to help show the rest of the world what the United States is like and at the same time to understand the views of someone raised in another country is something that past AFS host families feel is very valuable.

Those who are interested in more information about AFS should call Anne Bolick at 921-3298.

TO SEE THE WORLD: Leaving soon for AFS programs in countries in several parts of the world are, from left, front row, Leigh Peterson, Dominic Tracey, Laura Rodas and Abby Rose. In the rear are Nancy Moy and Peggy Bolster. They are among 14 Princeton area high school students who will live abroad for the summer or even a year with a host family in a new and different culture.

I AND I TOPIC

Of Meeting Tuesday. The Environmental Commission and the Sewer Operating Committee have arranged a meeting with Richard Field, a recognized expert on sewer infiltration and inflow who is with the federal Environmental Protection Agency. The meeting will take place Tuesday, July 10, at 10 a.m. at Borough Hall.

Last summer, Peggy McNeill, chairman of the Environmental Commission, attended a meeting in Cherry Hill at which "state of the art" projects nationwide on infiltration and inflow were discussed. Among the participants was Mr. Field, who described I and I projects he managed, and when she found that he was stationed or lived in Edison, she urged the SOC to bring him here for a discussion of Princeton's I and I problems.

The meeting will be technical in nature, but Mrs. McNeil hopes that some members of various Borough and Township municipal bodies with an interest in the whole sewer system might attend. She's eager to "get some momentum here" and a sense of success in what has been accomplished so far, along with some urgency about what needs yet to be done.

CONTRACT RATIFIED

By School Board. A new contract providing for an 8.1 percent raise each year for two years for custodians and maintenance people has been ratified by the Princeton Regional School Board and the Princeton Regional Schools Maintenance and Facilities Association.

The association represents custodians and maintenance people in the Princeton public schools. Salaries for these positions presently range between $10,400 and $20,775; pay raises, which go into effect July 1, will average between $1,000 and $1,500 each year.

LEARN ORIENTEERING

At the Library. The Mary Jacobs Library in Rocky Hill will present a program on orienteering on Wednesday, July 11, at 10. Orienteering is a sport that combines running, hiking, basic map interpretation and use of a compass.

The free program is for ages 12 and up, and registration is limited to 15. Call 924-7073 to register or to obtain further information.

HOME IS LOOTED

By Evicted Renter. A person who, Township police said, had been evicted last week from a home at 87 Leigh Avenue took a number of household articles worth $2,050 which were owned by the landlord.

The most expensive item taken was an $800 antique lamp. Police said that some of the other articles included an ironing board, toaster, antique clock, two fans and a garden hose. Police identified the victim as Meridith Gould and reported the incident was still under investigation.

Willem Kooyker of 506 Quaker Road reported the theft during the weekend of a wallet, containing $250, from an inside pocket of his suit coat in an office of the Commodities Corporation on Mt. Lucas Road where he is an employee.

A radar detector valued at $200 was stolen last week from a car parked all day at the Professional Building, 601 Ewing Street. The victim, a Hamilton Square resident, told police that the car had been locked but she discovered the side door unlocked when she returned at 5:15 in the afternoon.

A stereo cassette worth approximately $300 was stolen last month from a car parked in the upper level of the Princeton Medical Center's garage. Police said that the doors of the 1983 Chevrolet had been pried open. The car is owned by a Trenton resident.

A bicycle valued at $210 was stolen last week from the car port of a Balcrt Drive home. Police report the bike had been secured with a cable lock but the cable had been cut.

Two in the Borough. Borough police listed two bicycle thefts last week, one from in front of 80 Nassau Street. The victim, a Markham Road resident, told police he had locked his bike to a rack in front of that address at 7:30 Friday evening. When he returned at 11, he discovered the chain lock lying where his bicycle had been and his Raleigh 3-speed, valued at $150, was missing.

Another victim was a North Street resident who had chained her bike to a Witherspoon Street light post at 9:30 Friday night. The next morning she discovered the chain lock had been cut and the bicycle was missing. She told police it was a blue, men's 10-speed Peugeot, the property of a roommate who is out of town for the summer.

Two North Carolina rear license plates were stolen last week in separate incidents from cars parked in the Spring Street lot.

A resident of Swansboro, N.C., told police that his plate (DWJ-830) was taken overnight during the weekend — the thief left the screws and nuts lying on the ground — and a Witherspoon Street resident listed the theft of his plate, which he valued at $20, at approximately the same time. His number is BHT-946.

A Boston resident attending a wedding at the Cottage Club on Prospect Avenue Sunday night had her unattended grey leather purse stolen from a table. It contained a maroon wallet with $64 inside, a check book and credit cards. Police listed the total value of the loss at $104.

DRIVER CHARGED

With Marijuana Possession. A Trenton driver, Richard L. Montgomery, 42, stopped on Bayard Lane Saturday morning by Ptl. Dennis McManimon for an inspection violation, has been charged with possession of less than 25 grams of marijuana.

Alone in the car, Montgomery produced a registration which listed the car as belonging to a John Street resident — which agreed with a computer check. But he had no other credentials, police said, and could not remember his middle initial or where he lived.

As Ptl. McManimon approached to hand Montgomery a motor vehicle summons, he noticed the driver was wearing a work-type shirt with the name "Rich" on it -- which did not correspond to the name he had given the officer.

When Ptl. McManimon also noticed a bulge in his shirt pocket and asked, "What's that?", Montgomery allegedly replied, "Oh, just some drugs that I bought in Trenton."

He was arrested and taken to headquarters where police found a quantity of marijuana and some rolled marijuana cigarettes in his pocket. When police were able to determine his real name, they learned that Montgomery was driving while his license had been revoked and was also wanted on a warrant issued by the Mercer County Sheriff's Office for failure to appear in court.

He is scheduled to appear in Borough Court July 18.

Cyclist Charged. A 15-year-old Princeton youth was charged by Township police last week with eluding a police officer, operating an unregistered motorcycle and having no driver's license and no insurance.

Sgt. Mario Musso had stopped the cycle on a path between the Valley Road School building and the athletic fields when he saw two youths riding on it. When he first attempted to stop it, the driver, who was later turned over to the Township Juvenile Officer, continued on.

SCHOOL GYM ENTERED

But Nothing Taken. The Riverside School was entered between 6 Saturday evening and 5:40 the next afternoon when janitor Edward Courtney found the gym door had been propped open.

Captain John Petrone said that the building had apparently been entered through some part that was not alarmed. Once inside the gym, the intruders pulled a rim off a basketball backboard. Nothing is believed to have been taken.

There was an attempt to enter an Alexander Street home between 2 and 4 Sunday afternoon.

The victim told police that someone had cut a side screen of her home and had pushed up an unlocked window behind the screen. Capt. John Bellow reported, however, that "nothing is missing and it is doubtful if any entry was gained."

TWO DRIVERS INJURED

In Turning Mishap. In making a turn from S. Harrison Street onto Sycamore Lane Sunday morning, Richard M. Lebovitz, 27, 401B Devereux Avenue made a wide turn. Too wide.

His car carried over into the opposite lane and ran head on into a car operated by David A. Tierno Jr., 19, 110 Dodds Lane. Mr. Lebovitz told Ptl. John S. Seeley Jr. that he had not been paying attention and was charged with careless driving. Both cars had to be towed from the scene.

A passenger in the Tierno car, Elizabeth Tierno, 17, was treated at Princeton Medical Center for a concussion; Mr. Lebovitz was treated for lacerations of the face at the same facility.

Drunk Driver. Geoffrey F. Peters, 33, 76 Battle Road, was charged with driving while intoxicated and careless driving after he lost control of his pickup truck early last Tuesday morning on Stockton Street and struck a tree and a fence.

His 1977 truck, which suffered extensive front end damage and was listed a total loss, struck a tree 122 feet from Edgehill Street and demolished a 10-foot section of wooden fence in front of 80 Stockton Street. Police found 88 feet of skid marks on the roadway.

Mr. Peters was taken by the Princeton First Aid Squad ambulance to Princeton Medical Center following the 1:17 a.m. accident, where he was admitted for treatment of lacerations of the head.

When Ptl. Bernard Lenhardt arrived on the scene, he noticed that the motor compartment of the truck was on fire from the impact. He observed that the driver, who was outside the truck, was bleeding from several head wounds and he detected a strong odor of alcohol.

At the emergency room in the hospital, Mr. Peters told Ptl. Lenhardt that he didn't know anything about any accident. Police requested doctors remove two vials of blood from the victim.

Thursday morning at his home after he had been discharged from the hospital, Mr. Peters was interviewed again by Ptl. Lenhardt. He admitted to the officer that he had been drinking and was mad about a personal matter.

"I was driving fast. Then I would hit the brakes to slide. I did that several times. Then I lost control of my truck. I couldn't hold it and hit the tree.

"I knew I was drunk from the way I was driving."

ARSON A POSSIBILITY

In Car Fire. Township police are listing as possible arson a fire which last week extensively damaged a car parked at Larini's Service Station, 272 Alexander Street.

A foot-long piece of rubber hose was found at the scene and the gas cap of the 1972 Datsun was missing. Police report the car is owned by John T. Welch of Jacksonville, Fla.

According to police, the car had been last checked about a week ago. It is not known what caused it to catch on fire last week, bringing firemen to the scene.

Capt. John Petrone reported that the car was "completely damaged."

WORKSHOP PLANNED

In Rubber Stamp Art. Children ages six and up are invited to the Public Library to make rubber stamped postcards on Wednesday, July 11, at 7:30 p.m.

In the postcard workshop Ms. Curtiss gives a brief introduction to rubber stomp techniques and mail art. She has led workshops at the Printmaking Council of New Jersey, the Newark Museum and Pratt Graphics in New York.

Parents are welcome. Registration, on a first come, first served basis, is at the Children's Desk.

NEW CHAIRMAN NAMED

By Anti-Nuclear Group. The Coalition for Nuclear Disarmament announces the election of Ira Silverman, president of the Reconstructionist Rabbinical College in Philadelphia, as chairman.

Mr. Silverman, a resident of Winant Road, succeeds the Rev. Dr. Wallace M. Alston Jr., senior minister at Nassau Presbyterian Church, who has been chairman of the organization since its founding in 1981. The Coalition is a citizens organization whose educational and lobbying efforts are dedicated to global nuclear disarmament.

Mr. Silverman was director of special programs for the American Jewish Committee in New York City before assuming the presidency of the Reconstructionist Rabbinical College in September, 1981. As president, he founded a Shalom Center at the College as a resource center for the Jewish community on preventing nuclear holocaust. The Center develops and distributes materials on arms race issues to stimulate thought and discussion on preventing nuclear holocaust for synagogues and community centers across the country.

A 1966 graduate of Harvard, Mr. Silverman received a Master in Public Affairs from Princeton University in 1968. He served for a time as a faculty member and director of admissions at the Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs at Princeton before taking the post of director of federal relations for The Association of American Universities in Washington, D.C.

As chairman of the Coalition for Nuclear Disarmament, he will oversee the activities of 12 chapters in Central Jersey and several committees. The Coalition maintains an office and paid and volunteer staff at 40 Witherspoon Street. The Rev. Robert Moore, an ordained minister in the United Church of Christ who is serving a full time peace ministry, is executive director.

Harassment of Collins.
To the Editor of Town Topics:

It seems to me that if I were Collins Development Corporation I would pack up and leave town. The harassment it has been receiving on the Palmer Square program is frightful.

Here is an organization trying to carry on the spirit of Edgar Palmer, the generous philanthropist who spent millions of "great depression" dollars to clear out old buildings in order to develop an attractive "center city" for this community, and in the end gave it all away.

It is time to get off Collins' back and let them do the job that will benefit all of us.

There is plenty of room in this community for all kinds of housing, high cost, medium cost, and low cost. Collins has already received the go ahead from local governing authorities — why give them such a hard time at this particular site when there is plenty of room elsewhere?

Let's stop this harassment, and give Collins a big hand to get going. Furthermore, they are spending their money, not ours. Our tax money is being spent defending law suits to prevent Collins from proceeding.

PAUL S. SMITH
181 Laurel Circle

Problems Beyond Control.
To the Editor of Town Topics:

The following is a letter I have written to the mayor, Princeton Township, and members of Township Committee:

In its basic concern for seeing that communities provide their fair share of affordable housing, Mt. Laurel recognizes the need for providing such housing with all due concern for the environment and the quality of life which make an area such as Princeton a desirable place for people in all walks of life to live in.

I would hope that in some way the Princeton story will be presented to Judge Serpentelli, who will be hearing the Mt. Laurel disputes as they apply to Princeton. The judge is no doubt possessed of good judgment and common sense.

Princeton's record in construction of low income housing has been good, and the master plan adopted four years ago provides for a continuation of a fair share policy. Ordinances improvising some form of such a policy are under discussion.

The "Route One Corridor" building boom has generated a fast-paced development situation outside the boundaries of Princeton and on all sides of the town. This boom has brought on enormous traffic problems in the area and Princeton has become a crossroad for traffic moving in and out of the "Route One Corridor."

The county and state have failed to provide facilities which would relieve this congestion and their plans to do so are moving like molasses in January.

Both the building boom along Route One and the state and county plans for improving traffic conditions are completely beyond the control of Princeton.

Also, in part beyond Princeton's control, is the fact that it really has no sewer system to offer developers. For a number of years, federal and state funds, to the extent of 90 percent of the cost of restoring the sewers, were in the picture, and plans were being developed by Stony Brook Regional Sewerage Authority to take advantage of these funds. Before these funds materialized, the Reagan Administration terminated the program, and the state followed suit.

The town has begun a plan to restore the system at its own expense, but completion is a long way off and will involve very heavy expenditures. Also involved is a continuing disruption of traffic through opening up of streets to get at the sewers.

The Calton Homes suit, presumably the first Princeton suit which will be placed before Judge Serpentelli, involves a 120-acre tract of land, one part of which lies within the boundary of the Battlefield State Park and the National Historic District. The tract is a part of the Stony Brook Hamlet, the first settlement within Princeton Township, c. 1690. Much of this old settlement still exists in the form of original houses and the natural-stone Quaker Meeting House, as well as two stone bridges dating back to around 1800.

These old bridges carry the sole arteries into Princeton (Route 206 and Princeton Pike) over Stony Brook, which forms the northeastern boundary of the Calton Homes tract.

If development on this tract reaches over 1200 units, which is proposed, it will generate from 8,000 to 10,000 trips per day, which is untenable for this area. Much of this traffic will be headed for Princeton University's Forrestal Center and other commercial developments along Route One. There are two ways for this traffic to move: either through the center of Princeton or via Quaker Road, or Province Line Road to the Quaker Bridge Road intersection with Route One. This intersection is viewed as the number one traffic problem along the "Route One Corridor," but relief in the way of an overpass is a long way off.

Princeton, through no fault of its own, is wholly unprepared for a project of this magnitude at this location. A reasonable judge will so conclude.

I write this to urge the Township Committee not to pass the Affordable Housing Ordinance in its present form as a means of circumventing the Calton Homes suit, but to take the time for careful consideration of the plan presented to the committee by the Friends of Princeton Open Space. The plan would mandate sites within reasonable distance of schools, shopping, transportation and medical services, with provision to float bonds to pay for the costs involved. This would be far less expensive to Princeton taxpayers than the proliferation of development which would be generated by the proposed affordable housing ordinance.

KEY SERIES NEXT

For Post 76 Team. Princeton Post 76 American Legion team manager Larry Bender sees the next four games as the key to his team's chances for making the playoffs this season.

Princeton lost two of three last week to slip to 4-7 and a sixth-place tie with Hightstown in the ten-team league. Ewing is currently on top at 9-2, followed by Bordentown, Broad St. Park, Hamilton and Hopewell — all bunched a game back at 8-3.

Princeton's next four games will be against what Bender calls "the other half of the league." If the 76ers can sweep, they will climb above the .500 mark and be in good position when they have to face the top teams in the league.

Princeton will play Hopewell this Tuesday at 5:45 at Hopewell and then oppose Hightstown on Friday at 5 at Strubing Field on the Princeton University campus, in a makeup of a game that was rained out on Saturday and again on Sunday. Regular season games will resume next Wednesday following the July 4 break.

"I think we can beat Hopewell," predicted Bender. "If we can win the next four, that will be the key.

"We need a little luck and some wins to get the players believing in themselves. But if we can play like we did in the last two games we should be able to do it. When we put it together and play well defensively — the pitching is always there — we're as good as any team in the league."

Friday's 6-0 victory over Mitchell Davis was the second game in a row that Princeton played well defensively, and it ended a four-game losing streak for the victors. Dave Arendas pitched two-hit ball for six innings and got the win, his first against three losses. Mike Taylor finished up the last inning and allowed one hit.

"He's been really effective all season; we just haven't played well behind him," said Bender of Arendas. Arendas struck out two and walked two and aided his own cause with two singles and two runs batted in.

Princeton scored all its needed runs in the first inning, plating a pair of runs on Dino D'Angelo's double, and singles by Darren Villani and Mickey Carnevale. The victors then added another run in the second and three more in the sixth of losing hurler Sean Dill. Arendas, Villani, Carnevale and Mike Walker each had two hits to account for eight of the 12 collected by the victors.

Two days earlier, Post 76 suffered a tough 2-1 loss to Broad St. Park in a defensive struggle which saw Princeton outhit the victors, 4-3.

It was a game the losers could have easily won had they been able to come up with a clutch hit. Princeton, Bender noted, stranded nine runners on second or third base in scoring position. "We had opportunities all night long, including the last inning," said Bender.

Princeton loaded the bases in the sixth and managed to score its only run of the game. D'Angelo walked, advanced to third on Carnevale's single and came home on another single by Jason Petrone. Gavin Hulsman and Chuck McCall had the other two hits off winning pitcher Mike Novembre.

BSP scored the winning run in the last inning when Jeff Dougherty reached second on an error, was sacrificed to third, and scored on Joe McGovern's sacrifice fly. The victors scored their other run in the third, combining a double by Norm Leaver and a single by C.J. Rockhill. Princeton's Bill Feus was charged with the loss.

Post 76 began the week with a 16-3 loss to Hamilton, as Post 31 scored in every inning but the last, taking a 12-0 lead

What's the record for a big league baseball team winning the most games in one season? ... The all-time record was set by the Cubs who won 116 games in 1906 — and no major league team has ever topped that in all the years since then.

Three Cheers for the RED, WHITE, and BLUE — and S.D.&B.'s claim service.

Here's an unbelievable fact about baseball pitcher Jim Palmer who retired as a player this year ... Palmer pitched over 3,900 innings in his big league career and NEVER gave up a grand-slam homer ... In all those innings, spread over 19 years, nobody ever hit a bases-loaded home run off Palmer!

Incredibly, there was one athlete in history who won a gold medal in the Olympics and then also played in major league baseball AND in the National Football League ... Who did all that? ... Answer is Jim Thorpe who won a gold medal at the 1912 Olympics ... He played big league baseball from 1913 to 1919 ... And he played in the NFL from 1921 to 1928.

9 Ivy Football Games to Be Shown On Public Television This Autumn

It would seem to be a marriage made in heaven and the announcement came just one day after the U.S. Supreme Court voided contracts between the NCAA and the major television networks concerning the televising of college football.

The Ivy League, with its low-key, academically-oriented approach to the sport is teaming up with Public Television, the educationally-minded network. Nine games will be telecast on consecutive Saturdays, beginning September 22.

The games will be seen on the Eastern Educational Network, a group of around 50 stations located mainly in New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania and New England. Stations already lined up in advance included WNET (Channel 13) in New York, WHYY in Philadelphia, WQED in Pittsburgh and WEDH in Hartford.

However financing for the deal must still be worked out. Five sponsors are being sought to pledge $211,000 each, according to Jim Litvack, executive director of the Council of Ivy League presidents, who spoke at a news conference last week. The funds would cover production costs, and a payment to be shared equally by the eight Ivy schools for the rights to the games, said Barry Frank, a vice-president of Trans World International, the league's television representative.

Mr. Litvack said the league would get about what it did from the NCAA in previous years, where at least one Ivy League game was shown each fall on a regional telecast. Colleges last year received $600,000 per televised game to share with members of their conference.

Every one of the eight Ivy teams will be seen at least once during the season. League games will get precedence over non-league. The first two games to be shown will be chosen by August 1. After that games will be picked on Mondays to assure that "the televised game will be the best the league has to offer," said Mr. Frank.

after three. Former Hun School standout Rich Stout scattered six hits, giving up doubles to D'Angelo and McCall, in winning his third without a loss.

Hamilton's Bob Stemmer personally demolished the 76ers. The shortstop and former Notre Dame graduate, batted 5-for-5, including a pair of homers. He drove in seven runs to tie a club record in that category. Designated hitter Garret Mazur also excelled at the plate for Hamilton with three hits, including his first homer on the season in the second when the victors scored four runs.

Arendas was the victim of the Post 31 cannonading and took the loss for Post 76. Jason Petrone and Feus drove in the three runs for the losers who were guilty of five errors.

RED IS 2-0

In Women's Lacrosse. The Women's Lacrosse League began summer play last week with 80 girls registered, making this year's turnout the largest ever.

In the season's opener, Orange defeated Blue, 3-1. Carole O'Donahue tallied two goals while Bernice Chen added the third. The lone Blue goal was scored by Lee Jamieson.

Red defeated Yellow, 15-5. The victors dominated the game, Patty Huestis and Amy Kershaw leading the scoring with three goals apiece. Monique Muri, Amy Causing and Aileen Causing added two each, while Barb Van Horn, Julie Popenoe and Janet Lennor also scored. Audrey Chen, Lisa Gottesfeld, Rena Whitehouse, Kim Perna and Cathy Arcaro shared the scoring for Yellow.

Both games on Thursday were close battles. Yellow edged Blue, taking the 7-6 victory with two minutes remaining in the second half. Arcaro had the winning goal with Audrey Chen and Whitehouse scoring two each, and Audrey Kim and Sam Crimmons adding one each. Muri led Blue with four goals, while Allison Fraker and Anita Fernandez each added one.

Red battled Orange in an aggressive, well-played game. Orange had a 3-2 edge at half time, but strong play by Suzie Haynes, Cathy Tomlinson and defenseman Barb Van Horn sparked the Red team to a 6-5 victory. Kiki Van Raalte played well in the goal for the losers with 14 saves. Yellow's goals came from Cornelia Reeder, O'Donahue and Chen, while Haynes, Tomlinson,

THE STREAK GOES ON

For Sweet Jersey Corn. The numbers now read 16-0 for this season and 40-0 for the past two for the Priaceton-based womea's softhall team in the Mercer County Women's A League.

This week the Corn will oppose the Souvenirs Thursday evening at 8:30 at Mercer Park's Field No. 2. On Saturday and Suaday SJC will defend its United States Slowpitch Softball Associntion New Jersey title agaiast some of the hest teams in the state. All games will he played at Mercer Park.

Last week, the Cornsters defeated their arch-rivals 3 Seasoas, 5-2, aad blanked Dot's Girls, 6-0.

Against 3 Seasoas, SJC broke a 1-1 tie in the fourth when they scored four runs on hits by Saadi Hihhs, Meth Muzyka (3-for-3), Carol Knapp, Aadrea Perrine, Doreen Ragazza aad Debbie Smyth.

In the lost inning, 3 Seasons had scored a second run and had the bases loaded when shortstop Hibbs snuffed out the rally. She gloved a grounder up the middle, stepped on second and threw to Dee Discavage at first to complete the the double play. Clare Baxter was the winning pitcher.

Baxter also got the win against Dot's Girls. She received offensive support at the plate from Knapp who had three hits in three at bats and from Ragazza, Smyth and Grace Durland who contributed two hits apiece.

Success Explained. Any team that wins 40 in a row in any sport on any level has to have something special. How does Sweet Jersey Corn do it?

"To explain Sweet Jersey Corn's success is not an easy thing to do and it goes beyond the obvious essential ingredient of good, talented ball players," replied Bob Smyth, now in his fourth year as a coach for the team

"In my 25 years of coaching men aad women in various sports, I've never seen a team with such good chemistry. Everyone gets along well together and there are no cliques and no prima donnas. Steve (Steven Cohen the team's manager and founder seven years ago) adds a couple of players each year, primarily using talent as the criterion. But these new people fit right in and are totally accepted."

Second year coach Ron Hibbs adds, "It's unbelievable how well the players pick each other up. If one of the strong hitters isn't having a good game at bat, there always seems to be someone ready to pick up the slack."

Debbie Smyth, one of the team's co-captains along with Dee Vertucci, commeated, "The coaching staff, in addition to being encouraging and supportive at all times, also does a lot to motivate us. They know our personalities and how to get each of us up for games."

Cohen, who says he has assembled one of his finest teams ever, concluded: "I really like our team this year and we're doing a good job so far toward accomplishing our goal of winning our league."

Residential Complex Planned for Montgomery

PLANNED FOR MONTGOMERY TOWNSHIP: The Willows, a residential complex for older people, similar to Meadow Lakes in Hightstown, is planned for a 98-acre site on Route 206, about two miles north of the Montgomery Shopping Center.

Construction will begin next spring for a complex of 325 residential units and related facilities for older persons on 98 acres in Montgomery Township. First occupancies are targeted for Spring, 1986.

The site is located along the west side of Route 206, 2,000 feet north of Opossum Road, or approximately two miles north of the Route 518 intersection. At its deepest point, the site reaches a half mile west of Route 206.

The $35-$40 million development, which will be similar in concept and design to Meadow Lakes in Hightstown, is being financed jointly by The Presbyterian Homes of New Jersey and Bowers Development Corporation. Presbyterian Homes will be the manager and owner of the complex; Bowers will provide design and construction, as well as participate as a developer.

Besides the apartment housing, which is to be developed in two stages, there will be administrative offices, a health care center, central dining and lounge areas, library, swimming pool, spring-fed pond, putting green, tennis courts and parking areas. Additionally, a children's day care facility is to be located on the property to serve children of staff members and children of community residents who wish to utilize the service.

Much of the site will be landscaped, although a portion will be maintained in a natural, wooded state. Winding roads and walkways are to link all of the residential buildings in the complex to the central lounge, dining, library and office areas. In addition, the buildings in which apartment units will be located will be connected by all-weather, enclosed passageways. All buildings in the complex will be one or two stories high.

The first construction phase of the project will include the building of 200 apartment units, as well as most of the planned administrative, health and recreational facilities. The remaining 125 units are to be built as part of the second construction phase, he said. The apartments will range in size from one to three bedrooms.

The Presbyterian Homes is non-profit and non-sectarian, and currently owns and operates four other housing facilities as well as four health care centers, at various locations around the state, all for older persons.

Other housing now operated by The Presbyterian Homes varies significantly in style and cost to its residents. Among these facilities are Asbury Tower, a high-rise apartment facing the boardwalk and beach at the north end of Asbury Park, The Presbyterian Home in Haddonfield, and Plainfield Tower West, a high-rise opened last autumn in that community. LET'S TALK ABOUT

ARE YOU A USER???
(Pesticide use at home)
with Sam DeTuro
Woodwinds Associates

Did you know that most American gardeners use pesticides to control pests and diseases in their gardens??? Many of these controls can be relatively safe when used as directed, yet many gardeners are notorious mis-users of both pesticides and herbicides. The misuse seems to spring from haste and over-use, they don't take the time to observe all the necessary precautions and they figure if a little is helpful, more will be better.

The right way is to do EXACTLY what the label on the poison bottle says. Labels however, can be confusing. To clarify, each label contains the following information: 1. THE BRAND NAME – is what the manufacturer uses for advertising purposes. 2. THE COMMON NAME – simplifies the often long chemical nomenclature. For example, Diazinon, is the common name for the insecticide O, Odienthyl O-(2isopropyl - 6methyl - 4-pyrimidinyl) phosphorothioate. 3. THE INGREDIENT STATEMENT - shows the amount of active ingredient. 4. NET CONTENTS - expressed in any unit of measure, tells you how much is in the container. 5. FORMULATION. Different formulations (wet-table powders, dusts and liquids) require different methods of handling. This section tells you how. The same product may come in different formulations. 6. NAME & ADDRESS OF THE MANUFACTURER. 7. REGISTRATION NUMBER - Each pesticide must be registered with the U.S. EPA. The number indicates compliance. 8. THE PRECAUTIONARY STATEMENT - explains how the product is harmful to humans, domestic animals and environment. This section also informs you of any protective equipment and clothing you should wear and of other hazards such as fire and explosion.

Next week we'll conclude – but keep WOODWINDS in mind for any of your tree care problems. Call us at 924-3500.

Announcing a drastic reduction on the Apple IIe.

Now the world's most popular personal computer comes in a new size: extra small.

Introducing the Apple® IIc Personal Computer. It's a serious computer about as big as a notebook.

By serious, we mean 128K RAM, a full-size keyboard, and all the reliability of the Apple IIe.

It can run literally thousands of the same programs. For business, education, home management, and just plain fun.

Its svelte 7½ pound body houses a built-in disk drive and built-in electronics for printers and modems.

And the IIc comes with everything you need to start computing. Including an RF modulator that turns your TV into a monitor, a power pack and a free 4-disk tutorial.

Of course, there are still lots of reasons to take home an Apple IIe. Like its ability to grow with more peripherals and accessories than any other computer in the world.

Our professional sales staff will help you make the right choice.

They'll also help you apply for an Apple Credit Card. If you qualify, you can take either Apple II home for as little as 10% down.

Which can prevent a drastic reduction in something else. Your cash flow.

Collins Wins

Henry Pannell, the president of the non-profit community group, said he wasn't surprised by the outcome and continued to look forward to a hearing on Witherspoon Jackson's other lawsuit, contending that the proposed Collins project does not meet the requirements of New Jersey's Mount Laurel decisions for low and moderate income housing. That suit, for which a date was not yet set, will be heard in the court of Judge Eugene Serpentelli.

Mr. Green, the Collins manager, seemed to be no less eager than his opponent. "We feel that suit will not affect us," said Mr. Green. "We have our approvals and we don't think there will be anything retroactive."

Two Other Suits. Two other suits against Collins continue to simmer in the legal cauldron. The Greenholm Association, the group of neighbors adjacent to the Chambers Street side of the Collins project, is scheduled to present its case for an extension of the 45-day time limit on Friday, July 13. And Gerald Boswell, the Princeton resident and lawyer for the State Public Defender's office, continues to press his suit against the Borough for its sale of air rights to Collins. No date has been set for a hearing in that case, though Collins lawyers did file a motion last Friday calling for accelerated hearings in the matter.

The Greenholm appeal, like that of Witherspoon Jackson's, also will be heard before Judge Levy, though no one will bet that the outcome will be the same as last week's. One difference: Greenholm attorney Lewis Goldshore will argue that the Planning Board erred procedurally in its Collins hearings.

"We think the proceedings were defective," said Mr. Goldshore. "People were cut off, objectors did not have an adequate chance to express themselves. Questions were limited. The rules of court state that the 45-day limit can be expanded when the interests of justice require such action."

As for the lawsuit attempting to void the Borough's sale of air rights over Palmer Square East to permit the expansion of the Nassau Inn there, Mr. Boswell said he didn't expect it to come to trial until after Thanksgiving, "unless the court makes an effort to fit it in as an emergency case." Then, he said, "my guess is not before September."

Either way, Mr. Boswell said he is eager to argue the case, especially since it will be heard in the Appellate Division of Superior Court, rather than in Judge Levy's courtroom. "I have difficulty with the way Paul Levy has handled the case. I find his attitude somewhat cavalier," said Mr. Boswell.

A negotiated settlement to this suit now seems highly unlikely. "I'll be willing to talk to Collins only on the condition that they reach a successful conclusion to their negotiations with Witherspoon Jackson. If one can stabilize some of the housing problems, then the loss of air rights over Palmer Square becomes less critical," said the lawyer, adding that such a settlement at this point "seems impossible."

And as Mr. Boswell pointed out, trying cases is what he has done professionally for the past 13 years. "Collins is in my ballpark now," he said. "I have no doubt this case will eventually reach the New Jersey Supreme Court."

Robbery

170 pounds, medium build with large eyes and pimples on his face. Wearing a white baseball cap and a royal blue running suit with white stripes on the sleeve, he was armed with a handgun.

The second suspect is 5-0 to 5-3 tall, slim, with very dark skin and very young looking. Possibly a teenager, police said, he has large eyes and large lips. Like the first suspect, he was wearing a baseball cap and a blue running suit.

According to Ptl. Robert Buchanan, who conducted the initial investigation, the two suspects entered the store around 3:30 and browsed around until all customers had left — about 20 minutes later.

When the store was empty, one of the suspects pointed a gun at the three employees and ordered them to lie on the floor. After rifling the register, the two suspects fled — on foot, police believe, because witnesses questioned did not see them get into a car. A check by police of all the stores in the center and the surrounding area failed to uncover the suspects.

Earlier the same day, between 2 and 2:30, 10 to 15 Izod shirts valued at $28 each were shoplifted from Epstein's in the same Shopping Center. A description of the two black suspects fits the pair that robbed the video store, Capt. Petrone said. He said police believe it is the same two people.

Epstein's was "hit" again later the same afternoon by another shoplifter. Taken around 5:40, Capt. Petrone said, were 15 polo shirts valued at $9.99 each and a red and white striped beach bag. Total value: $171.84.

The suspect in this last incident is described as a black male, 16 to 20, 5-7, medium build. He was wearing a white shirt with grey stripes about one inch wide.

"ANY SIZE HOUSE & GARDEN UNDER THE SUN"

Mission Impossible Gains Little Intelligence, One Doughnut

To: Agent 0033.
Re: Operation Big Blue.

Comrade, KGTT has just received word that in less than 24 hours, at precisely 11 a.m. on Wednesday, June 27, a force of approximately 1,500 operatives of the enemy's huge computer company, International Business Machines, will assemble at the Jadwin Gymnasium in Princeton, New Jersey. Our information is vague, but we have reason to believe that the computer mongers of IBM will announce a major strategic shift in the mission of these operatives at their locations in Dayton, New Jersey, and at the Forrestal Center on Route 1 near Princeton.

Your mission is to penetrate this strategy session, record the statements of the key IBM operatives, and observe the behavioral traits of the lower level operatives, whose allegiance to the computer mongers has become legendary. At all times be wary of the vaunted IBM security force, which is expected to be at full strength for this momentous event and which has been trained to detect instantly any interlopers who do nat conform to the corporate image of Big Blue, the computer mongers' nickname. Agents Lana and Olga will assist you in this difficult mission. Good luck, comrade.

KGTT Command

At 10:30 a.m. sharp, Agent 0033 wheeled the Dodge Colt out of Park Place, down Nassau Street, and into the shaded campus of Princeton University. He smiled at the ingenuity of his disguise: The blue jeans and blue New York Yankees T-shirt would portray him as just another student. He made no effort to conceal the recording equipment, but held it openly in his hand, and connected it by wire to a pair of headphones that would make Big Blue security think he was listening to some disgusting American rock and roll music.

So what if the college was closed for the summer? So what if Agent 0033 was already 37 years old and looked nothing like the American jocks who hang out at Jadwin Gymnasium? If Big Blue security challenged him, he had another identity: the identification papers, even the automobile, of a Princeton newspaper writer. Haha. Lana and Olga had obtained them.

Of course, 0033 knew that even an American reporter would not be exactly welcomed by Big Blue. He had heard stories of reporters who had been granted official interviews with Big Blue being tailed by public relations men wherever they went — even into the bathroom. He knew that Big Blue made some employees sign oaths that they would never speak to reporters without first obtaining clearance from their superiors.

Agent 0033 winced at the thought of being exposed as a reporter and patted his back pocket to see if the red pen was still there. Good, the cyanide tablet was in the cap.

By the time he reached Jadwin Gymnasium the IBM operatives were already assembling. At the main entrance the handle of the one unlocked door was taped over with yellow and black tape. Big Blue security guards directed the operatives to doors leading into the Jadwin lobby from the Palmer Stadium side. More security guards were there and their eyes moved sharply from individual to individual, looking at the photograph on the identification badge and then into the eyes of the person wearing that badge.

Peering through a window Agent 0033 saw more yellow and black tape. The entrances to the main hall of the gymnasium were blocked by strands of tape; so were the stairways to the balcony level. Security men, dressed in corporate suits that enabled them to blend in with the executives, were stationed near all doors. His pulse quickened as he approached the outer guard:

"What's going on," he asked, feigning ignorance. "A big game today?"

The security man's eyes blazed at the spot on 0033's chest where everyone else had a badge. All the security man saw was the Yankee logo. He paused before he responded to the inquiry. "It's just a meeting, for IBM employees only."

The comrade took a step toward the inside. "Thanks," he said, as if the security man had owed him the explanation. "I have an appointment upstairs with my coach."

Walking briskly, but in a way that would suggest that American rock and roll was being transmitted into his headphones, Agent 0033 passed through the lobby. The computer monger operatives, obviously anticipating an announcement of a major mission, were exchanging nervous chatter, sipping coffee and tea from opulent urns, and consuming mountains of donuts and sandwiches.

Above the lobby was the balcony and Agent 0033 knew that the success of his mission depended on gaining access to it. But each successive staircase was blocked by yellow and black tape and guarded by a Big Blue security man. Beyond the lobby, however, was one last staircase — haha, no yellow and black tape and no security man. How do the computer mongers say it, 0033 thought, a glitch?

On the balcony 0033 watched as the 1,500 operatives filed into the center of the huge gymnasium at precisely 11 a.m. From the photographs supplied by KGTT he immediately recognized the first speaker, Victor Goldberg, the president of Big Blue's National Distribution Division in Montvale, New Jersey.

To Agent 0033 much of what the president said seemed to be in secret code, but he knew that KGTT cryptographers would welcome this material: "We're announcing today that we will transfer systems supply development and manufacturing from NDD in Dayton to locations in Lexington and Boulder...

"Some of you, essential to that mission, will be asked to relocate in either Lexington or Boulder. I believe you will find these to be good opportunities, and I hope you will see your way clear to accept them. The majority of the others will be offered jobs in an expanded NDD division here in Dayton."

Sure, Agent 0033 thought to himself, the computer mongers are doing what all the evil profit mongers do — laying off oppressed workers and forcing others to move to corporate Siberias such as Kentucky and Colorado. That's why the security men were there: Big Blue did not want the American people to know.

But President Goldberg continued: "Let me assure you that every IBMer will be offered a new job, most of them in the Dayton area. We do of course have programs of retraining that have always enabled us to maintain our full employment tradition, and we will continue that tradition right here. You will meet with your managers to discuss your individual situation and your interests. We'll do our best to match your skills with the needs of IBM.

"Let me assure you that if you must or if you elect to change jobs, we will give you every possible consideration in selecting that new job."

When the president concluded his speech all the operatives applauded. Then Dick Barlow walked to the podium. KGTT had identified him as a former vice president for manufacturing and development and now a vice president of systems supplies. The vice president pointed toward the four corners of the huge gymnasium and into the lobby and told the mass of operatives before him that they would move into separate "breakout" meetings in these areas.

"There's quite a logistics move to be made in a few minutes so I ask that you pay attention and see if we can get this pulled off as smoothly as the entrance was." Agent 0033 hoped his recording device was still functioning properly. In the homeland such a movement of operatives would have been accomplished efficiently, using chains and AK submachine guns. How would the computer mongers do it?

The vice president spoke slowly: "NDD employees who are not part of system supplies may return to your offices following this meeting. Buses will be available for boarding in the parking lot area which you used this morning.

"We will have five breakout meetings on this floor, four in the gym and one in the lobby. One breakout meeting will be held on a lower level. All meeting areas have a letter designation such as the A over on my right. Please note the designated letter area as it is called out for your function and go to that area as soon as we conclude this meeting.

So that was it, thought 0033, a system of letter designations to direct the operatives to their new meeting locations! Wait 'til KGTT command obtained this intelligence.

The meeting ended and the computer mongers moved effortlessly to their "breakout" meetings for more strategic planning with their bosses. Agent 0033 still had to make his way through the lobby and out of the building and return the reporter's car and identification before he awoke from the trance induced by comrades Lana and Olga.

Agent 0033 descended a staircase, slipped under the taut strand of yellow and black tape, and headed for the exit. He took one last look at the Jadwin lobby and noticed a gleaming tray of leftover donuts. "This is reckless and stupid," he thought. But it was afternoon and he ached with hunger. He walked up to another checkpoint. His recording device in hand, his head bobbing to the imaginery beat of some disgusting rock and roll music, 0033 asked the two security people if IBM would mind if he took a donut.

They looked at each other. Neither one seemed ready to answer. They pointed to a much taller man standing next to the tray. "Maybe he could help you." The agent walked back into the lobby and repeated his question. This security man seemed self-assured: "Help yourself. Take two."

Agent 0033 took only one and headed out the door. "Thanks, IBM," he thought, "but in my country two donuts would be gross overconsumption. Perhaps you could learn from us, just as we today learned from you."

To: Agent 0033.
Re: Operation Big Blue

Thanks, 0033, for making available copies of your report on the IBM strategy session. As you know, I disapprove of your tactic of impersonating a reporter, even if you in turn impersonate a student. I am making your report public, however, so that the American people and IBM can see firsthand the treachery of you and your comrades, including Lana and Olga. I also can assure you that IBM security will be strengthened considerably after publication of this material.

Incidentally, I checked with Ed Russell, manager of communications for the systems supplies unit of IBM's National Distribution Division. He told me that "mission change" involved transferring a relatively small number of employees from Dayton and Forrestal to other areas. He assured me that the total number of people employed in this area would remain the same.

Good luck, 0033, in the computer race. You'll need it.
